

The pirates were very strong and tall. They had scars, hooks, tricornes, eyepatches, wooden legs and tatoos. They had daggers and swords too, and the man had beard. They often had a parrot on the shoulder.

Pirates

On their flags, there were skeletons, bones, wings, hearts, daggers, arrows, hourglasses... There were skulls too. Often, the flags were black, red or white.

On the ships, pirates slept in hammocks, played cards, served the captain and climbed the mast. But the pirates guarded the prisoners, steered the navigate, raised the sails, drank rum and beer, sang and danced too.

People think that pirates walked the planks and drew treasures maps, but in reality, they dragged prisoners from their boats. The pirates were spenders, they didn't bury treasures.

AHOY!

PIRATES

Pirates were strong. They had a long beard and a moustache, a tricorn, a hook, a wooden leg, leather boots, a long coat, an eye patch, a parrot on their shoulder, a scar on their face, a pistol, a sword and a dagger.

On the flag, there was a skull in the centre, with two crossed bones. Under the skull, at the bottom of the flag, there was a dagger. On the right, there was a heart with wings and on the left, there was an hourglass. The flag was black.

On the ship, pirates slept in hammocks, served the captain, sang songs and danced. They climbed the mast, raised the sails, ate biscuits and drank beer and rum. They attacked enemy ships and guarded their treasure, played cards and steered to navigate. Pirates didn't sleep much.

People think that pirates were savers, they buried their treasure, they drew treasure maps and they walked the plank. But in reality, pirates weren't savers, they were spenders, they didn't draw treasure maps and buried treasure, they didn't walk the plank. They were very cruel, they dragged people from their boat and slashed them with swords. They traded captured goods on markets.

Generally pirates have a hat or a tricorne, a long coat, a sword or a pistol, a dagger and a beard.

They can have a scar, hooks, a beard, a wooden leg and an eye patch because there isn't a doctor on their boat. The captain can have a parrot on his shoulder.

The pirates have many flags. On the flag, there is a skull or a bone or wings or a hourglass and many others. There ^{are} 3 colors for flags: red, white and black.

The pirates have many activities on the boat. They can play cards, dancing, singing and sleep in hammocks during their free time. When they work, they serve the captain, they guard the treasure and the prisoners. They climb the mast, they raise the sails and they steer to navigate. They eat salted meat and biscuits and they drink rum and beer. That's why their life is so hard. Sometimes the pirates attack with cannons, enemy ships and destroy them and they steal their treasure to make a fortune.
